

Naoko Ishii joins the “Global Advisory Council”

The GX Acceleration Agency launched the “Global Advisory Council” to build network with globally renowned experts and enhance international communications. We are pleased to announce that Naoko Ishii, Director and Professor, Center for Global Commons at the University of Tokyo, has joined as its first member from the Asia region. With the participation of Ms. Ishii, who engages in environmental issues from a global perspective and possesses extensive expertise on the Asian region in particular, we will further strengthen our organization’s role as a GX Hub.

1. Overview of “Global Advisory Council”

The GX Acceleration Agency launched the “Global Advisory Council” featuring globally renowned experts to strengthen global networks and enhance international communications.

With their cooperation and advice on Japan's GX policy and our initiatives, we incorporate expertise of council members and their respective organizations into our activities, enabling our agency to operate from a global perspective. We also utilize their networks to strengthen international communication of Japan's GX policies and our activities.
